

Welcome to the GPTN Newsletter!

Welcome to the Garden Practice Transformation Network! The NJ Innovation Institute is pleased to have you as a participant in GPTN and our staff is looking forward to working with you and everyone in your practice. This initiative provides significant support and resources to support you as your practice strives to improve quality for your patients and succeed in the new payment environment. Over the coming weeks and months, we will share resources and tools, schedule many events for peer to peer learning and our coaches will work directly with you to achieve your goals. Thank you for joining us in this exciting initiative.

Upcoming Events:

GPTN Transformation Day: September 28, 9am - 3pm
Hilton Newark Penn Station

Join us for the first in-person event bringing together clinicians participating in GPTN - a great opportunity to meet peers, NJII staff, and CMS Staff. Updates will be provided on MACRA/MIPS and what you can expect from GPTN, plus a panel of clinicians working to transform their practices. Seating limited - register today!

2015 Annual Quality and Resource Use Reports (QRUR)

- As a GPTN participant NJII Transformation Coaches can help practices access their QRUR which provides the baseline for practice's quality and cost thresholds. Our Transformation coaches assist the practice in identifying high cost patients and low quality measures to improve on. NJII analyzes QRUR exhibits to help determine patients that are attributed to your practices Tax Identification Number (TIN) that can be driving up your cost.
 - The 2015 Annual Quality and Resource Use Reports (QRUR) will be available in September 2016. Additional information about the 2015 Annual QRURs is available at the 2015 QRUR and 2017 Value Modifier website.
 - QRURs can be accessed through the CMS Enterprise Portal using an Enterprise Identify Data Management (EIDM) account. For more information on setting up an EIDM account view the Guide for Obtaining a New EIDM Account.

Further Resources

If you haven't already, please take a look at some of the offerings from our support and alignment networks. Both The American Medical Associations Choosing Wisely and the American College of Physicians Practice Advisor offer assessments to customize modules to the needs of your practice. Both offer continuing education credit and are free if you register as a member of the Garden PTN.
